“ It is with great admiration and a whole lot of “Lord, don’t let him fall” that we remember the iconic moment of September 13, 2021, when 82-year-old Floyd Dyer climbed on top of his house and pressure-washed his roof.

While most folks his age were enjoying armchairs and sweet tea, Floyd was up there defying gravity, common sense, and probably his doctor’s orders. And he did it with the confidence of a man who absolutely knew that roof didn’t dare misbehave under his watch. For the seven years we had the pleasure of calling him our neighbor, Floyd was always the first to show up whenever a tree fell, a limb snapped, or something suspiciously loud happened. Tucker and I will deeply miss our sweet neighbor, the kindness, the stories, and of course, the video evidence that age is just a number when you’re determined to pressure-wash at 82.
