“ I shared a lot of happy times with Alan, from playing cards to a camping trip with Kim and Lynn, and when we were lucky, Alan would spend time at Christmas with us on the farm. He was such a kind hearted man and we love him. He was family. Alan, I'll see you on the other side.

“ It’s hard to be sad when I think of Alan because so many memories were of fun and funny times. We have a very similar sense of humor and Alan and I could be sarcastic with each other and know it was all in love. One memory is the time Alan, Lynn and I lived together and had to survive the “blizzard” of 93 all together with just us and a pet snake....it was a difficult time but we got through it together with a lot of patience and, thank goodness, humor. Just thinking of the three of us passing the snake off to each other to keep warm on our bellies while we had no heat so that he wouldn’t hibernate, just makes me giggle. Tough times are often the funniest memories when you look back and I have lots of memories like that of my brother in law, Alan. He was a generous heart wrapped in a package of sarcasm and good humor.
