“ I will remember fondly all the days I spent sitting with and assisting Pat as her illnesses progressed. We had shared so many similar thoughts and ways we did things...we kinda had the same kind of upbringing and related to each others feelings so well. We laughed together at times, and cried together other times. I wished we could have known each other longer...we got along so well. I know her children and other family members will miss her very much. But, knowing Pat as well as I did, I know that finally she is at peace and all sickness is gone. I know she is with Shag and others, but most important, she is finding comfort in the arms of Jesus. Rest in peace, Pat. I am so blessed to have known you. Joyce Clark
