“ Von was a fishing buddy of my Dad, Don Sinclair, here in Hugo in the 60s. Von was working for the cable company when I got married. We didnt have the money for cable so Von came over to the apartment and hooked up the cable to an old black and white cabinet tv my parents gave us and we had cable the whole time we lived there. He did the same for my sister and her husband who had a small house next door to our apartment. He was a sweetheart.
